Security in the Forrestal Building: Visitors with DOE badges (no specific clearance level is required) can log in at the turnstiles. Other visitors will need a visitor badge. Guards at the security desk will check visitors against the list of people that registered on-line for the meeting. Visitors will be asked for a picture ID to sign-in; and will be given a visitor's badge. Allow 15 minutes for sign-in. Visitors keep the same badge each day but turn it in and retrieve it if leaving and returning during the same day. The sign-in process is repeated each day. Foreign nationals must register separately; contact David Weitzman (301 903-5401, david.weitzman@hq.doe.gov) for the procedure.

Access to certain areas of the building is restricted and controlled. Visitors will have access to the balance of the building which includes the rooms for this meeting, the cafeteria, and snack bars. Most visitors will not require escorts in these areas. Foreign national visitors from certain countries will require escorts.

Laptop computers, digital media (e.g., thumb drives, CDs), and cell phones may be brought into the building. Visitors must obtain a property pass for their laptop computer upon entering the building in order to be permitted to leave with it. Guards at the security desk will issue a property pass each day that must be kept by the visitor while in the building.

Evening function: The Kennedy Center and dinner on Tuesday evening, March 16. It is a few Metro stops from DOE. It hosts a free performance every day of the year at 6:00 p.m. The performance for this evening will be by a DC traditional Irish step dancing school. A Center brochure gives highlights of the facility that we can use for an informal tour. It's a very impressive facility. We can walk or taxi to nearby restaurants.
